About Mental Care Group and the European ADHD Study

BlinkLab’s European ADHD study is a collaboration with Mental Care Group (MCG), the largest mental healthcare provider in the Netherlands, and the fifth largest in Europe, operating across approximately 150 locations and an expansive network of psychologists, psychiatrists, and other clinicians servicing over 80,000 patients annually.

The current European ADHD study is a large-scale clinical study designed to evaluate BlinkLab’s objective measures against gold standard clinical diagnostic approaches for ADHD.

This announcement has been approved by the Board of Directors.
