Neu Horizon Uranium Commences Trading on the ASX
as Sweden Accelerates Nuclear Renaissance

Neu Horizon Uranium Limited (ASX: "NHU", "Neu Horizon" or the "Company") is pleased to announce the commencement of trading of its shares today on the Australian Securities Exchange ("ASX"), at a time of increasing global recognition of nuclear energy as an essential component of the world's transition to secure, reliable and low-carbon electricity.

The Company's listing coincides with significant policy and industry developments in Sweden, one of Europe's most supportive jurisdictions for the expansion of nuclear energy with recent milestones including:

- The selection of Rolls-Royce SMR to deliver Sweden's first new nuclear reactors in more than 40 years;
- The Swedish Government's continued commitment to financing new nuclear generation as part of its long-term energy security strategy; and
- A national objective to significantly expand nuclear generation capacity to meet rapidly increasing electricity demand from industrial electrification and the green energy transition.

These developments reinforce Sweden's position as a strategic jurisdiction for uranium exploration and future nuclear fuel demand.

Neu Horizon has assembled a highly prospective portfolio of uranium exploration assets in Sweden, providing shareholders with exposure to a country that combines world-class geological potential with increasingly supportive government policies for nuclear energy. The Swedish portfolio is complemented by a district-scale land package on the northern margin of the Athabasca Basin in Canada, the world's premier uranium district.

Together, these projects provide Neu Horizon with a diversified pipeline of compelling uranium targets, with exploration activities commencing in the coming weeks.

Commenting on the Swedish Uranium opportunity and the Company's listing on the ASX, Neu Horizon's Executive Chairman, Martin Holland, said:

"Neu Horizon lists on the ASX at a pivotal time for both the uranium market and Sweden's energy future. Sweden has clearly demonstrated its commitment to nuclear energy through supportive government policy and major investment in next-generation nuclear technology.

We believe the strengthening fundamentals for nuclear power, combined with our high-quality Swedish uranium portfolio, position Neu Horizon to participate in what could become one of Europe's most significant uranium exploration opportunities."

Global uranium market fundamentals also remain robust, underpinned by:

- Growing global demand for nuclear power;
- Increasing deployment of Small Modular Reactors ("SMRs");
- Long-term concerns regarding uranium supply security; and
- Government policies supporting energy independence and decarbonisation.

Neu Horizon intends to rapidly advance exploration across its Swedish uranium portfolio with the objective of identifying significant uranium discoveries capable of supporting Europe's growing nuclear fuel requirements.

The Board welcomes new shareholders and looks forward to delivering on the Company's exploration strategy as Neu Horizon begins its journey as an ASX-listed uranium explorer.

This announcement has been authorised for release by the Board of Neu Horizon.
