Norwood Secures A$595,000 CogVoice Contract Enhancement

Key Details:

- Norwood Systems has secured an additional A$595,000 (+ GST) of contract value associated with enhancement works for its CogVoice advanced voice services project with a Tier 1 Australian telecommunications operator.
- The enhancement works are additional to the previously announced project scope and will support further solution refinement, implementation and delivery activities

Norwood Systems Ltd (ASX: NOR), a leading provider of communications service platforms, is pleased to announce that it has signed a contract variation. This will result in an additional A$595,000 (+GST) in contract revenue for enhancement works relating to its existing CogVoice advanced voice services project with a Tier 1 Australian telecommunications operator. The original contract was disclosed in the Company's ASX announcement on 18 March 2025.

The additional work forms part of the broader platform modernisation program already underway and is intended to support continued solution refinement, implementation activities, and project delivery outcomes.

This additional revenue reinforces the strategic value of the engagement and reflects the ongoing collaboration between Norwood and the customer as the project progresses.

The enhancement work is expected to contribute positively to project execution and further supports Norwood's position as a trusted supplier of advanced communications platform solutions to Tier 1 telecommunications operators.

Norwood's CogVoice platform, powered by advanced artificial intelligence technologies, provides a flexible foundation for advanced voice services and next generation communications innovation for telecommunications operators.

Paul Ostergaard, CEO and Founder of Norwood, said:

"We are pleased to have secured this additional contract value as this CogVoice project continues to progress. The enhancement works reflect ongoing project momentum and the value our team is delivering as we support the customer's platform modernisation program."

We remain focused on delivering a high-quality implementation and providing a scalable foundation for future service innovation."

This announcement has been authorised for public release by Paul Ostergaard, CEO and Founder of Norwood Systems.
