Orbia awards Worley Engineering and Design Services contract

Worley Limited (ASX: WOR) ("Worley") has been awarded an engineering and design services contract by Orbia Fluor & Energy Materials to provide engineering, supply chain and modularization services and construction support services for Orbia's lithium hexafluorophosphate (LiPF₆) production facility in St. Gabriel, Louisiana.

The site is Orbia's first large-scale LiPF₆ production facility in the United States and is set to support domestic energy security with the ability to produce up to 10,000 tonnes of lithium hexafluorophosphate per year. Lithium hexafluorophosphate is an essential component used in lithium-ion batteries, and critical to the supply chain for battery materials in the US.

Under the contract, Worley will provide engineering and full supply chain services, including modularization and construction support, through its Louisiana office, with support from Worley's Global Integrated Delivery (GID) team. The scope includes automating to the maximum extent possible manual operator tasks within the process to support Orbia's operations.

"This award reflects our capability to support increased customer demand for work in energy transition materials. We are pleased to continue the work we have done in previous phases of this strategically important project for Orbia, supporting the lithium-ion battery supply chain," said Chris Ashton, Chief Executive Officer of Worley.

Authorized for release by Nuala O'Leary, Group Company Secretary.
