About ZMI

ZMI is focused on the complete zinc supply chain with newly acquired metals technologies complementing ZMI's mineral exploration activities and unlocking significant value-add opportunities across its current portfolio. ZMI's new technologies, ARGO and VOLTA, directly address the significant environmental pressures facing industry, offering potential low-temperature, low-emission alternatives to the incumbent high-cost pyrometallurgical processes. ZMI aims to commercialise these metals technologies to extract and recycle metals critical for the world's requirements. ZMI also owns the Kildare zinc deposit located approximately 40km southwest of Dublin, an area known for high-grade zinc mines.
